Abstract: Many complex organisms and machines deteriorate and fail in a surprisingly similar way. I will present a model that accounts for this similarity, and then discuss how such models can be used to pinpoint the origin of a given catastrophe.